67 Barclay N.E. This building, constructed about 1934, was attached to the old Central Reformed Church at 164 Fountain N.E., and served as the parish house and office building for the congregation. After the church burned on Tuesday, February 10, 1953, this annex was sold to the Salvation Army in the 1950's and became the downtown headquarters for some years. The building size is 75' x 100', and had a gas furnace and steam heat. The building is now part of Grand Rapids Community College's

332 Barclay N.E. Engine House No. 2. Although the date on the face of the building was 1879, the city directory for 1875 already gives this location on Barclay just south of Michigan (E. Bridge Street) for this fire station. The old No. 2 on Bond (Kent Street) north of Crescent (Bronson Street) became part of the new Engine House No. 4. The fire extinguisher Advance was stationed here. It may be that the building was not completed and ready for occupancy by a fire company until 1879. Due to its deteriorating condition, it was decommissioned as a fire station on September 21, 1966. The engine company was relocated to No. 4 Fire Station at 1945 Kalamazoo S.E. to better serve the expanding south end of the city. The building was used for some years for storage by the Grand Rapids Coat and Apron Co., to the north across the alley. The south stall still had the set of old rails on which the steamer had been backed in for an exact connection to the boiler. (Old number: 220.
